FRENCH DEPUTIES EXCITED.

MINISTER JONNARD'S EFFECTIVE SPEECH ON THE LABOR QUESTION.

AN UPROAR CAUSED BY HIS QUOTATION FROM A SOCIALIST PAPER ADVOCATING THE USE OF DYNAMITE-M. MILLERAND'S REPLY

> -DEBATING A RESOLUTION FOR INVESTIGATING THE RECENT

COAL MINERS' STRIKE. Paris, Dec. 12 .- M. Basly, Socialist, moved in the Chamber of Deputies to-day the appointment of a commission to inquire into the recent strike of coal miners and the condition of the miners. He denounced the manoeuvres resorted to by the coal companies in fighting the workingmen's syndicate, and asserted that the companies did not care how the miners lived or starved, if only they had strength left to enable them to be further exploited. His remarks called forth cheers from the Socialists. M. Plichon, director of the Pas de Calais mines, asked: "Are you accusing me?"

This was the signal for an uproar, and the noise continued until M. Dupuy, President of the Chamber, interposed, saying: "There are no accused men here; all are Deputies."

M. Jonnart, Minister of Public Works, delivered his first speech as a member of the Cabinet, and it was a clever one. He denied that the Government sought to interfere with the right of workingmen to strike, but asserted that it was determined to maintain the liberty of labor. He drew a graphic picture of the con-stant strikes, which, he declared, had resulted in the withdrawal of French capital from home industrial enterprises and its embarkation in stant strikes, which, he declared, had resulted in the withdrawal of French capital from home industrial enterprises and its embarkation in speculation.

When M. Jonnart made this statement the Socialists cried out, "Panama!" "Panama!" Continuing his speech, M. Jonnart said that the labor agitators instituted strikes against the will of the workingmen, who were forced to obedience by the machinery of the unions. He denounced the Socialists for preaching the doctrine of the Social Revolution, and, to illustrate a point in relation to this, began reading from a Socialist newspaper which advised workingmen to throw dynamite. He had got only half through the second sentence when a Socialist Deputy, Sempat, shouted: "You are a forger!" In an instant all semblance of order in the Chamber vanished. Forty or more Deputies were on their feet shouting accusations, while many others hissed or cheered. Eventually President Dupuy induced Sembat to withdraw his words, and M. Jonnart proceeded with his speech. The relations of capital and labor, he assured the Deputies, would receive the conscientious attention of the Ministers, who were determined to better the condition of the working people. The reforms contemplated, however, must be accomplished by lawful means, and no deviation from such means would be tolerated by the Cabinet.

Prolonged applause followed the close of M. Jonnart's speech, and many Deputies crowded round him to shake hands and offer their congratulations. There is no doubt that he proved himself the best orator that the present Cabinet has put in the Speaker's tribune.

Alexandre Millerand, Deputy for a metropolitan district, answered M. Jonnart for the Socialists. He denied that Socialists encouraged the use of dynamite. After declaring that M. Jonnart's quotation was made in a disingenuous spirit, he read the sentence following the one at which the Minister stopped. This sentence stated that the dynamite recommended for the use of Socialists was the doctrine of Socialism. As Millerand flourished aloft

DISCUSSING THE TRADE TREATIES.

SPEECHES IN THE REICHSTAG-DR. MIQUEL ON THE RUMANIAN CONVENTION.

Berlin, Dec. 12 .- The Reichstag to-day discusse the report of the commission appointed by the House to consider the commercial treaties. Count von Lemburg-Stirum sharply attacked Dr. Paasche, the referee of the commission, for not expressing the views of the minority against the treaties. Dr. Paasche replied that the minority had declined to supply him with a formulated statement of their objections

Freiherr Marschall Bieberstein, Minister of ForFign Affairs, urged the House to confirm the treatles. Tariff wars, he said, always tended to annihilate economic values and injured the industries and agriculture. He appealed from what he termed the badly informed Agaraians to the better-informed majority in the Reichstag to support the Government rediev.

sation in the lobby, said he estimated that Rumanian treaty would obtain a majority of tw ty-eight if the vote were taken at a plenary ting of the Reichstag. He added that if the clalists and Richterists should absent themsel in order to embarrass the Government this tre might be lost by sixteen votes.

FRENCH GRAIN DUTIES NOT TO BE RAISED. Paris, Dec. 12—Deputy Meline, the French Mc-Kinley, and Deputies Alphonse Turrel and Jean Leygues met Premier Casimir-Perler and M. Viger, Minister of Agriculture, at the Foreign Office to-day to submit proposals to increase the grain duties. M. Tisseraud, Director of Customs, was called in as an expert. Finally all agreed with him that it would not be necessary to increase the grain du-tles if steps should be taken to prevent fraudulent speculation in grain. Such action probably will be taken soon.

COMPLETING THE NEW ITALIAN CABINET. Rome, Dec. 12.-The new Cabinet, formed by Francesco Crispl, will probably be announced officially to-morrow. Senator Andrea Calendra di Tavani has been selected for the Ministry of Jus-tice. Senator Luigi Ferrario for the Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs, Senator Augusto Baccelli for the Ministry of Public Instruction, and Deputy Paolo Roselli for the Ministry of Agriculture. The war and marine portfolios have not yet been al-lotted.

MONSON'S TRIAL FOR MURDER BEGUN. Edinburgh, Dec. 12.-In the High Court of Justic fary to-day Afred John Monson was called upon to plead to the indictment charging him with causing the death at Ardiamont, on August 10, of Lieu-tenant Hambrough. The case is popularly known as the "Ardiamont Mystery," and has excited keen in-terest in all parts of the United Kingdom, owing to the prominence of the prisoner and his alleged to the prominence of the prisoner and his alleged victim. Monson pleaded not guilty. His alleged accomplice, Edward Sweeney, allas Davis, allas Scott, has not yet been found by the police; and, in accordance with the rule that obtains in the Scotch courts, he was pronounced to be an outlaw.

The first witness called was a Mr. Brand, a civil engineer. He produced a plan of the Ardiamont estate, and detailed minutely the features of the grounds where Monson and Scott were seen and where the body was found, Monson's footman testified that on the day of the shooting Monson returned to the house, and informed the witness that Lieutenant Hambrough had shot himself, and that his body had been left in the wood. The witness sarched for the body, but was unable to find it until Monson took him to the spot. Witness saw no gun. On the night before Lieutenant Hambrough's death, he heard about the boat of which young Hambrough had been an occupant, sinking in the bay. He saw the hoat. In the bottom of it was a hole which had obviously been made with a knife. Monson has always since the boat incident averred that it was due to the capsizing of the craft.

FRAGMENTS OF FOREIGN NEWS.

London, Dec. 12.—A boat from the troopship Tamar capsized in Plymouth Harbor to-day. Five of its occupants were drowned.

Buenos Ayres, Dec. 12.—Dr. Alem and General Espina, leaders of the recent Radical insurrection, will soon be released from confinement, by order of the Supreme Court.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12.—A thaw has set in here, and with it there is an increase in the number of new cases of cholera. Yesterday there were thirty-eight cases and fifteen deaths reported.

Bucharest, Dec. 12.—M. Demosthenes, Surgeon-in-Chief of the Rumanian Army, has been making experiments with the Männlicher rific. He pro-cured several cadavers and, placing them fifty contimetres apart, fired at them at a range of 90 metres. He found that the builets went through three of the bodies. The wounds inflicted on the soft parts of the bodies were less serious than those inflicted by the old rifies, but, taken as a whole, the injury done was more terrible. It is computed that the range of the Männlicher rific is 2½ miles.

elbourne, Dec. 12.—An estimate of the Austan wheat crops for 1893 places the yield of toria at 13.500,000 bushels; New South Wales, 1000, and South Australia, 11.259,000.

FOR REPRESSING ANARCHY.

THE FRENCH SENATE UNANIMOUSLY PASSES THE NEW PRESS BILL.

THE MEASURE TO BE PROMPTLY ENFORCED-MANY SUSPECTED PERSONS TO BE EX-PELLED-ARREST OF THE MARCHAL WOMAN - VAILLANT LOSING

HIS AIR OF BRAVADO. Paris, Dec. 12.—The Senate to-day passed the Press bill adopted by the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. There was not a dissenting vote. President Carnot signs the bill to-night. It will be published in the "Journal Officiel" to-morrow and will be enforced immediately thereafter.

The committee appointed by the Chamber of Deputies to examine the bills concerning the handling of explosives, the association of malefactors and the establishment of an extraordinary police fund are unanimously in favor of the adoption of these measures.

A semi-official estimate places at 600 the number of the dangerous Anarchists in Paris and its suburbs.

The search of the police in the northern part of Paris will probably result in the expulsion from France of thirty foreigners who are believed to be relatives of Anarchists. Marchal, the husband of the woman who lived with Vaillant, the bomb-thrower, has vanished, and the police can find no trace of him. The police learned from papers which they discovered that Mme. Marchal was fully aware of Veillant's plan to throw the bomb in the Chamber of Deputies, and that her seeming surprise when informed of the crime was assumed to throw the authorities off the scent. She has been arrested.

The representative of the United Press called at the Prison de la Santé to-day to inquire as to the condition of Vaillant. The would-be assassin has lost much of his former air of bravado and his spirits are depressed. His actions and conversation are in marked contrast to his actions and braggadocio after his arrest.

M. Guesde, a Socialist member of the Chamber, has received a letter signed "One of the Eourgeoisie," in which the writer says that he has condemned M. Guesde to death. The letter continues: "I will kill you like a dog at the exact moment that suits me. Remember that you are No. I on the condemned list."

The police this morning found this placard posted on the Arc de Triomphe: "Fear nothing. Vaillant! There are comredes left who are quite strong enough to avenge you, if the bourgeois dare to take your head."

London, Dec. 13.—The Paris correspondent of "The Daily News" says that Vaillant concealed for some time a leg wound caused by a nail from the bomb. The wound is said to have become so inflamed that a capital operation must be performed in case Vaillant is to be kept alive for trial.

The correspondent adds: "All statements that Vaillant was in the free gallery of the Chamber of Deputies are your. He was actually in the

The correspondent adds: "All statements that Vaillant was in the free gallery of the Chamber of Deputies are wrong. He was actually in the adjoining gallery, for which M. Angelies, Radical Deputy for Corbell, gave him a ticket. M. Angelies did not know Vaillant, who applied under the name of Dumont, giving an address in Angelies's electorate. The latter, knowing that Dumont was a common name there, and being rejuctant to offend a probable supporter, acceded, and personally handed the man a ticket. He was impressed with Vaillant's distinguished manner and calm bearing."

PARIS PAPERS ON THE PRESS BILL. DENOUNCED BY RADICAL ORGANS AND AP-PROVED BY MODERATE REPUBLI-CAN JOURNALS.

Paris, Dec. 12.-The "Journal des Débats," commenting on the adoption of the Press law by the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, says that the Gov-ernment did an excellent day's work. The Moderernment did an excellent day's work. The Moderate Republican journais approve of the adoption of the bill, while the Radical organs reproach the Government for interfering with the liberty of the press. The "Gaulois" says that the measures of the Government will not convert Anarchists, but will prevent the manufacture of bombs.

The Conservative papers declare that it would be wrong to think that the Chamber of Deculies saves society. They argue that the Government measures will not bring about the results expected. The "Figaro" says that the bill will prevent an increase of Anarchist prints, and will thus impose silence on dilettanti dynamiters.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM MANY POWERS. M. DUPUY READS TO THE CHAMBER SEVERAL OF THE DISPATCHES-RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THREE PARLIAMENTS.

Peel, expressing the sympathy of the House of Commons with the Chamber because of the dynamite outrage perpetrated in the Chamser on Saturday, M. Dupuy has received a personal letter from the Speaker, saying:

"The Speaker of the House of Commons presents his compliments to the President of the Chamber of Deputies, and, speaking in his private capacity, is desirous of adding to the unanimous expression of feeling on the part of the House of Commons his own personal sympathy with the President of the Chamber. He ventures to offer his admiration of the coolness and courage with which the danger was met, and is auxious to express his detectation of the distardly crime, which has aroused universal indignation in Great Britain.

London, Dec. 12.—The Earl of Kimberley, Lord President of the Council and Secretary of State for India, moved in the House of Lords to-day that that body join the House of Commons in expressing sympathy with the French Chamber of Deputies and with President Carnot. Lord Salisbury, the leader of the Opposition, seconded the motion, which was adopted.

Brussels, Dec. 12.—The Chamber of Deputies has by a unanimous vote adopted a resolution expressing sympathy with the French Chamber. Several speakers denounced the crime in the most severe terms. M. Janson, a Radical, said he hoped that the universal executation poured out on the would-be assassin would be a lesson to those who expected to realize their theories by means of violence.

The Hargue, Dec. 12.—The Second Chamber of the States-General, the popular branch of the Legislature, has adopted a resolution of sympathy with the French Chamber of Sympathy with the French Chamber of the States-General, the popular branch of sympathy with the French Chamber of Deputies.

AN ANARCHIST ORDERED GUT OF BELGIUM Brussels, Dec. 12.-The Dutch Hebrew, Conen. sub-editor of the Anarchist paper, "Pêre Peinard," of Paris, who was expelled from France yester-day, sought refuge in Beigium. Immediately upon his arrival he was waited upon by pence officials, who ordered him to quit the country.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS IN ROME. Rome, Dec. 12 .- At a meeting of the Council today, the President of the Chamber suggested that measures be adopted to prevent in the parlia-mentary buildings any such explosion as that of Saturday in Paris.

AN ANTI-ANARCHIST BILL IN SPAIN. Madrid, Dec. 12.-Señor Capdepon, Minister of Justice, has prepared a bill for the more rigorous repression of Anarchism. He will soon submit it to the Cortes.

A French Anarchist named Lomsack was arrested to-day in Barcelona. Arms, ammunition and An-archist pamphlets were found in his room, around the papers being a pamphlet entitled "The Re-of Anarchist Experts."

SICILIAN PEASANTS STILL TURBULENT. Rome, Dec. 12.—The Agrarian movement of the easants in Sicily continues to threaten riot and bloodshed. Anti-tax manifestoes have been issued in a dozen districts within the last week, and the troops on the island are kept on the alert to suppress symptoms of disorder. Several Radical Deputies have pledged themselves to support the new Cabinet in restoring quiet in the Sicilian rural districts.

STORM IN ENGLAND AND THE CHANNEL. BTORM IN ENGLAND AND THE CHANNEL.

London, Dec. 12—A storm is prevailing on the south coast of England and the English Channel. The Channel steamer service to and from French and Belgian ports has been badly interrupted. The telegraph lines have suffered extensively. Many minor morine casualties have been reported. High winds and rain did much damage in England to-day. The Army printing works, now building at Aldershot, were partly destroyed. Men at work on the building came down in the ruin, and several were seriously injured. The peninsula of Poole, in Dorset, suffered severely.

STRENGTHENING THE BRITISH NAVY. GLADSTONE SAID TO HAVE CONSENTED TO THE BUILDING OF MORE WARSHIPS IN ORDER

TO AVOID A CABINET CRISIS. to-day that the Cabinet, yielding to public opinion, has decided to strengthen the navy. The details, the paper adds, have not yet been settled. It is believed, however, that about $8,000,000 will be exceeded by the control of the pended in the construction of new ships. The Gov-ernment's programme, it is said, includes the buildernment's programme, it is said, includes the building of six or seven battleships, some of which will be of the largest type, probably of an improved Royal Sovereign pattern. "The St. James's Gazette" says further that this decision was conceded only in order to avoid something like a Cabinet crisis. Earl Spencer, First Lord of the Admiralty, favored the plan, but Mr. Gladstone and Sir Willlam Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, lam Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, objected to the increased expense, as it was certain that the budget would be a bad one. The programme will be laid before the House of Commens early next year.

A meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce was held at the Cannon Street Hotel to consider the state of the British naval defences. There was a crowded attendance. Sir Albert Kaye Bollit, member of Parliament, presided. Among those present were General Lord Roberts, ex-commander-in-chief of Her Majesty's forces in India; Field Marshal Sir John Linton Simmons and several members of the House of Commons. The chairman, who is president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce and chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce and chairman is far less than that of Great Britain, those countries spend for naval purposes more money proportionately than Great Britain spends. Charles Ritchie, formerly president of the Local Government Board, made a statement similar to that of the chairman.

General Lord Hoberts, when he arese to speak, was warmly received. He made a brief address in support of the resolutions which were submitted, declaring that steps should be taken immediately to increase the navil defences.

CHARGED BY THE LONDON POLICE. RED AND BLACK PLAGS DISPLAYED IN A DEMON-STRATION OF THE UNEMPLOYED KEIR HARDIE'S SPEECHES.

James Keir Hardie (Socialist), member for the South Division of West Ham, moved in the House of Commons to-day that the House adjourn. The motion was made for the purpose of calling the attention of Parliament to the condition of the unemployed. Mr. Hardle said that acute distress was prevailing in the entire country. A large number of cases of suicide and starvation had been reported. Pauperism had increased, especially in London. It was necessary, he declared, that the local authorities should furnish employment for the poor. John Macdonald, member for Tower Hamlets, sup-ported Mr. Hardie. The motion was lost by a vote ported Mr. Hardie. The motion was lost by a vote of 175 to 23.

Thousands of unemployed workingmen of London met at Tower Hill to-day, and listened to addresses made by James Keir Hardie, Frank Smith and others. Mr. Hardie said that he intended to move the adjournment of the House of Commons to-day in order to call the attention of Parliament to the condition of the unemployed. Upon the conclusion of the speech-making the crowd marched to Hyde Park. A number of black and red flags were displayed. Several speeches were made, after which the procession was reformed and started on the way back to Tower Hill. As the men marched through Oxford-st, the police captured the most offensive banner. The procession was allowed to march through Cheapeide, but subsequently when the men were ordered by the police to disperse they refused to do so. The police charged the crowd, and after a slight resistance succeeded in dispersing it. Traffic was stopped for a short time. Some of the shopkeepers in the vicinity of the disturtance feared that the mol might loot their places of business, and as soon as the disorder began shutters were hastly put up, doors locked and business suspended.

REMARKABLE SPEECH OF THE YOUNG CZECH LEADER IN THE SEICHSBATH.

Vienna, Dec. 12 -Dr. Edouard Gregr, member for the Raudnitz district of Pohemia and leader of the Young Czechs, made a remarkable speech in the of siege in Prague.

The proposal to continue the exceptional measures instituted several months ago in Prague was brought up for second reading. A half-dozen speeches, all except one by Young Czechs, were made. Dr. Gregr then ascended the tribune and for hours he held the unwavering attention of the House as he vehemently and eloquently denounced the treatment accorded to Robenia by the Imperial Government. The Czechs of Honenia, he said, must acknowledge that their affection for the Austrian dynasty was wanns under the oppressive regulations with which the Imperial Government had seen fit to lood them. Bohemis had tecome Austria's Ireland. The Czechs felt that self-government was their right, and they demanded it, as Ireland had demanded home rule.

Stanislaus Szczepanowski, Pole, answered Dr. Gregr. The Czech leader's reference to Ireland, he said, was unfortunate, as, by contrast, it directed attention to the fact that Bohemia was prosperous and progressive. The exceptional measures under discussion were directed not against the Czechs, but rather against those practising political trickery, when all Robernia way.

THE RESPONSIBILITY SHOULD BE FIXED. From The Commercial Advertiser. Senator Hoar's determination to fix the responsi-bility for this howing Hawafian farce will meet with the approval of all good citizens whose un-derstanding is that we are still living under a re-publican form of government, and that one man isn't all.

A FAILURE IN COMPREHENSION.

From The Brooklyn Standard-Union.

The Democratic editors who chatter about Senator Hoar's scoiding and lack of dignity do not understand public sentiment or public besiness. The petty folly about the Hawailan blind-man's-buff of which the Administration is guilty is contemptible, and held in contempt.

A GRAVE FEATURE OF THE AFFAIR. From The Bultimore American,

Mr. Hoar, in his remarks introducing his resolu-tion, said he wished it distinctly separated from all questions of annexation or protection of the Hawaiian Islands, and he is right. It is a much graver matter than any other that can arise out of the Hawaiian incident, and Senator Gray, in his dippant remark, betrayed a lack of appreciation of the situation, which can only be deplored. ARE THERE CONFLICTING STATUTES?

ARE THERE CONFLICTING STATUTES?

From The New-York Recorder.

There is a law on the statute books which apparently prohibits the appointment of any man without the consent of the Senate in the capacity in which Blount was accredited to Hawaii. If it had been framed to meet his case, it could hardly have fitted it more exactly. Probably the President can find in some other statute the justification for the appointment of his Extraordinary Commissioner. That is what the Hoar resolution calls upon him to do. Unprejudiced public ordinon will wait for the President's defence. It will not condemn him in advance.

IT WOULD NEED RECTIFICATION.

Prom The Washington Post.

Perhaps, by some process of divination unknow to ordinary mortals, the President has found hi warrant for Sedgwick and Blount, and for an in definite number of paramount commissioners an personal representatives hereafter. But, if so, Corpress cannot know the truth too soon, or to promptly set about a measure that will rectify it. THE PEOPLE WANT THE FACTS.

From The Boston Journal.

Senator Hoar is still after the Democratic Administration in his Hawaiian matter with a sharp stick. His resolution of inquiry is pertinent and comprehensive. The people want the facts. NECESSARY QUALITIES NOWADAYS.

A THORN IN THE PRESIDENT'S SIDE.

MR. DE WITT'S ADDRESS. The dinner was a merry one, and moved along with much promptness. At a few minutes before p o'clock, the coffee came, and then followed a speech by the president of the alumni, Mr. De Witt. This is part of what he said:

"Pellow Alumni: Another year has passed away, and again we meet at our annual dinner to renev our youth, revive the memories of our college days and give evidence of our loyalty to Columbia. We have every reason to rejoice over the continued prosperity and progress of our college. The university system has been consummated, new schools have been established and every department strengthened. To the teast "Our Guests" Edmund Wetmore spoke for Harvard in is of long standing like the traditional friendship between France and the United States. I imagine that perhaps in the early days, here and there some Parlian Harvari tutor, wearing Plymouth who wanted to see the world, and therefore, avoiding New-Haven, had worked their possage round from Boston, came here and were entertained by iliai and delightful, and the association has never been broken. We have found ourselves in touch, also, in many matters of policy and government. Columbia, for instance, as I understand, favors a most liberal policy as respects women who are desirous of sharing the benefit of a university education, so does Harvard, so that we may say, with Faistaff. "Go to them; there's sympathy," Harvard, however, claims a slight lead in this particular. First, we had a mere appendix for a few ambitious girls, but this has grown until, by a kind of application of the nebular hypothesis, the central university planet has thrown off the appendix in the shape of a complete college having a name and orbit of its own we have the Annex Radeliffe—not she, the mysterious ways of Idolpho, or any other man, are perfectly familiar to the modern young lady—but an Anne Radeliffe who was an early benefactress of the college. Ferhaps it is a little premature to say that familiar to the modern young lady—but an Anne Radeliffe who was an early benefactress of the college. Ferhaps it is a little premature to say that familiar to the modern young lady—but an Anne Radeliffe who was an early benefactress of the college. Ferhaps this is about to—has set up a providental government under the protectorate of Harvard, and as every member of the government is a queen in her own right, we don't antici-

felt called upon, on our part, to, so to speak, set her up again. (Laughter.)

"Then to continue our parallel, in the matter of choosing a president, tharvard and Columbia proceeded in the same way. Each reconfized the fact that the president of the modern university requires more than a degree of divinity and a protound knowledge of theology and the classics to fit him for his high office.

"Only as respects the point of statesmanship, I must confess this that your president's political wisdom enables him to ree which way a tidal wave is coming, in time to get on top of it, while our president seems to miss his calculations and to pass under. This, however, may be after all the profoundest statesmanship, that teaches him that it is better to go with the rest, even when he foresees that they are going down, rather than to mean the awful consequences of knowing more than his party.

"Then our representatives always work well to-sees that they are going down, rather than to incur the awful consequences of knowing more than his party.

"Then our representatives always work well together. When the country needed advocates to maintain her cause before an international tribunal, with England for her antigonist and the world for an audience, harvard offered the mane of James C. Carter and Columbia that of Frederick R. Condert, and such was the rest work that the best that the English Bar produce could not surpass their elequence is lanning. If they did not get judgment for all any saked, Judge Cullen will tell you that this frequently happens, even to the ablest of lawyers." (Applause, The other speeches of the evening were by exjudge Henry E. Howland, who spoke for "Yale." The idea he expressed was that there should be larger concentration of assistance about the greater institutions of learning rather than a distribution among the smaller schools. His suggestions were loudly applauded. The final address was in behalf of "Princeton," which Adrian J. Joline made felictously.

In the course of the evening there was singing.

THE STUDENT BOARD TO MEET MR. LOW. There is indignation at Columbia College over There is indignation at Columbia College over the exaggerated reports of the "rushing" of the freshmen dinner on Friday night, and on the cam-pus on Monday, on account of which eight men were suspended. Determined that there shall be no more such affairs, President Low has summoned the Board of Student Representatives to meet him to-morrow afternoon. This board is composed of the presidents of each of the four classes in the School of Arts and the School of Mines. It has full authority in all matters of student life out-School of Aris and the School of student life outside of studies, the president of the college having the power of veto.

There is a feeling that the president was influenced too much by exaggerated reports when he surpended the eight students. The beard will undeabtedly give him hearty support in rooting out promiscuous "scrapping" around the college.
